09 — STRATEGY & IMPACT

Kayan Ventures Framework

إطار كيان فينتشرز

◆◆◆

WHAT THIS IS

How Kayan moves from connecting talent to owning a stake in what that talent builds.

A Yemeni operating institution ◆ Aden

Kayan Innovation, Entrepreneurship & Work Environments LLC

OWNER: CEO (MAHER FAISAL SAEED FAREA) ◆ CONFIDENTIAL — INVESTOR

Effective 30 June 2026

HOW IT OPERATES

WHAT THIS IS	Kayan's framework for backing and building ventures — and taking equity — using its verified talent and delivery engine.
WHO IT IS FOR	The founding team, investors, and venture partners.
APPROVAL	Every venture commitment is a reserved matter approved by the CEO and the partners.
WHEN IT IS USED	From the platform-and-community stage onward, once the verified base and delivery record exist.
WORKFLOW	Source from the Card → match a team to an idea → fund or introduce investors → build with managed pods → hold equity.
COST / FEE	Capital and delivery effort against an equity stake; disciplined and staged.
OWNER & REVIEW	CEO (with the Partner Council). Reviewed per commitment and annually.

01 LOGIC

Why Kayan Can Do This

> Kayan does not just connect talent to work — it can own a stake in what that talent builds.

Kayan already does the three hardest things in venture formation in a frontier market: it verifies the people, it runs the delivery engine that turns an idea into shipped work, and it holds the trust infrastructure that makes capital comfortable. A startup studio elsewhere has to build those from scratch; Kayan has them as a by-product of its core business. That is what lets Kayan move along the value chain — from intermediary, to builder, to part-owner of the companies its ecosystem produces.

02 MODEL

Marketplace and Venture-Builder

The model has two layers. The marketplace layer is the platform itself — in the spirit of Uber or Booking.com, Kayan is the trusted intermediary that takes a position in every transaction it enables, whether managed delivery or direct selection. The venture-builder layer sits on top: Kayan originates startups, staffs them from verified Card profiles, builds them with managed pods, and holds founding equity.

FIGURE ◆ Two layers — a marketplace that takes a position, and a builder that takes equity.

03 SOURCING
Sourcing from the Card

The right founders are not guessed at — they are already proven on the trust ladder.

Most venture failure traces back to the team. Kayan starts where others cannot: with a verified population. Founders and venture teams are drawn from Card profiles at the upper trust tiers, chosen on both their technical record and the Kayan Six competencies — the people who have demonstrably delivered, withstood pressure, and honoured their commitments inside the ecosystem. The Card profile is the selection spine.

FIGURE ◆ From a verified member to a Kayan-backed company.

04 MECHANISMS
How Kayan Takes a Position

MECHANISM	HOW IT WORKS	WHAT KAYAN GETS
Equity-for-delivery	Kayan builds the product with managed pods in exchange for a stake rather than (or alongside) a fee	Founding equity
Co-investment	Kayan invests its own capital alongside a round	An equity stake
Investor matchmaking	Kayan introduces vetted investors to a Card-sourced team and stays involved	A stake and/or carry
Venture-builder	Kayan originates the company, assembles the team from the Card, and incubates it	Founding equity & control rights

05 DISCIPLINE
Selection, Governance & Discipline

A venture qualifies only when the team is verified, the model is viable, it fits the frontier-economy thesis, and it is genuinely deliverable by Kayan's pods. Every commitment is a reserved matter requiring the CEO and partners, with conflicts managed openly — a venture must never be favoured over a managed-delivery client, and any overlap is disclosed. The same equity discipline that governs the founders' own buyback (nominal in the early years, rising to market value over five) informs how venture stakes vest and unwind. Ventures is a later-stage layer: Kayan proves the mechanism on a small number of equity-for-delivery deals, learns, and only then scales — capital and attention are finite, and the flywheel comes first.

06 COMPOUNDING
Why It Compounds the Mission

Done with discipline, ventures deepen the moat — more verified records, more institutional gravity — generate returns that fund the mission, and make Kayan the destination for the most ambitious Yemeni talent, who now see that the ecosystem can not only employ them but back them. This is how a trust-infrastructure platform becomes the institutional anchor of an entire startup economy, as comparable first movers have done in other post-conflict markets within a few years.

CONNECTED SYSTEMS & INSTRUMENTS

Ecosystem & Platform Strategy ◆ Kayan Competencies ◆ Freelancer Registry ◆ Governance Charter ◆ Revenue Architecture ◆ Investor Memorandum.