

CAMPAIGN PROGRAMME · AUG 2026 – JUL 2027

KAYAN

Twelve Months, One Story

The campaign programme for Kayan's first year — August 2026 to July 2027. Twelve distinct campaigns, the always-on brand beneath them, and the engines that run them: content, sponsorship, and the volunteer, card, and points system that turns giving back into standing.

Document	Campaigns	Engines	Values
KAY- CMP-001 · v1.0	12 + a standing bank of 8	Content · Sponsorship · Give-back	Tokenised to F-01

The story the year tells

The talent was always here. The system was not. That is the argument the whole year makes, and Behind every success, a KAYAN. is the promise it lands. This is not twelve unrelated pushes. It is one story told across twelve months, each campaign a chapter, each feeding the two things that outlast any campaign: the verified talent map, and the standing people earn by giving back.

The year moves through four acts. It begins by making Kayan known and putting verified talent on the map. It proves the model with delivered work and a home to build in. It reaches its civic peak in Ramadan, when giving back earns standing. And it scales — women, sectors, graduates — and closes on an anniversary that looks forward to what comes next.

THE FOUR ACTS

Act	When	What it does
Act I — Arrival	Aug–Oct 2026	Make Kayan known; fill and reveal the verified talent map; open the Hub.
Act II — Proof	Nov 2026–Jan 2027	Show delivered work; bridge the diaspora; turn learning into paid work.
Act III — Mobilise	Feb–Apr 2027	The Ramadan civic peak; gratitude at Eid; women's economic participation.
Act IV — Scale	May–Jul 2027	Sector demand; graduates into work; the anniversary and the look forward.

THE PRINCIPLES BENEATH EVERY CAMPAIGN

1. Everyone is a co-builder, not an audience. The public is invited into Kayan, not marketed at.
2. Every claim is backed by proof. We publish delivered work; we do not promise it.
3. Do no harm. Civic and government engagement stays on youth, skills, employment and community — never on the conflict, never on a faction. National moments are treated as community, not politics.
4. Inclusion is shown by integration, never by segmenting people into categories. A woman-led pod delivering a client's work is the message; a label is not.
5. Every campaign feeds the two engines that outlast it: the verified talent map, and the standing people earn by giving back.

Everyone is a co-builder, not an audience. The public is invited into Kayan, not marketed at. That single choice shapes every campaign that follows — from the Founders' Wall to the give-back ticker.

Who each campaign is for Every campaign is aimed. These are the audiences the year speaks to, and the single action each is asked to take.

Audience	Who they are	The action asked of them
Talent	Young Yemenis with skills and no credible way to prove or sell them — job seekers, upskillers, women, people outside Aden.	To register, complete verification, and reach paid pod work.
Clients	SMEs, larger businesses, INGOs and UN agencies, and government bodies who need work done and cannot risk an unreliable freelancer.	To bring a brief, fund it into escrow, and receive delivered work.
Diaspora	Yemenis abroad who want to help home with more than remittances.	To commission work from verified pods, or to sponsor a cohort or a give-back project.
Sponsors & partners	Corporates, foundations, INGOs, universities, and government with budgets for CSR, skills, and youth employment.	To fund campaigns and cohorts, and to be seen building the system.
Volunteers & community	Skilled people who want to give back, and the community institutions that need their help.	To give verified hours to community projects and earn standing.
Hub community & learners	People who need a place to work, meet peers, and learn.	To become members, join Forge cohorts, and form pods.

· The twelve campaigns

Each campaign is a full brief: the insight it is built on, the distinctive idea, what actually happens, the one moment that carries it, how it is told, who sponsors it and what they receive, and what it needs. Costs are tokenised; the workbook computes them.

We Build It Together

“You don't attend the launch. You're in it.”

For: All audiences · Window: 1–31 Aug (runway from 20 Jul)

THE INSIGHT

Yemenis are told to wait for opportunity or leave for it. Kayan says the opposite: we build it, here, together — and we name the people who build it.

THE IDEA

A launch that treats the whole city as co-builders. The K mark is revealed being drawn — a single stroke that completes as Kayan's sonic signature plays for the first time. A Founders' Wall, physical at the Hub and live on the site, names the first verified talents, the first clients, and the first sponsors as the people who built Kayan. Nobody watches the launch; everybody is on the wall.

OBJECTIVE

Establish Kayan's name, meaning, and sonic identity across Aden, and convert attention into the first wave of registrations.

WHAT HAPPENS

The mark reveal film: the K drawn in one stroke to the sonic signature; released across every channel on day one.

The Founders' Wall: the first verified talents, clients and sponsors named, on-site and online, updated live.

A launch gathering at the Hub where the first pods, sponsors and civic guests meet — not a show, a working room.

Founding Member recognition on the first registrants' Kayan Cards.

THE MOMENT

The first hundred verified names lighting up on the Founders' Wall as the sonic signature plays.

HOW IT IS TOLD

Facebook and Instagram reveal film · WhatsApp broadcast to the pre-launch list · TikTok behind-the-build · LinkedIn for the B2B and INGO audience · The site's live Founders' Wall

SPONSORSHIP — FOUNDING PARTNER

Who: A corporate or foundation prepared to be named as a builder of the system from day one.

They receive: Name and mark on the Founders' Wall as a Founding Partner; first association with a credible new institution; a founding-year impact report.

Civic angle: Government or local authority invited as a Founding Civic Partner endorsing a youth-employment initiative — framed on jobs and skills, never politics.

GIVE-BACK TIE

Founding Members recognised on their cards; the wall itself is the first act of giving-visibility.

The Map

“The talent was always here.”

For: AUD-TAL, AUD-SPO, government · Window: 1–30 Sep

THE INSIGHT

People say Yemen has no talent. The truth is that its talent was never made visible or verifiable. Absence of proof was mistaken for absence of skill.

THE IDEA

The Verified Talent Map goes public — a living map of verified Yemeni talent by governorate and by specialisation. Every verification lights a pin. The map is both the proof and the product: the argument that the talent was always here, and the reason to complete verification and be counted. September's back-to-work energy is pointed at one action — register, get verified, get on the map.

OBJECTIVE

Drive verified registrations and establish the map as the public evidence of Yemeni capability.

WHAT HAPPENS

The public map launches, filling in real time as verifications complete.

A verification push: registration throttled to what the queue can clear, so the map is credible, not inflated.

Specialisation spotlights — a verified translator, a verified developer, a verified designer — as the map's human faces.

A governorate 'lighting up' moment as each region's first verified talent joins.

THE MOMENT

A governorate lighting up on the map for the first time, with the name and craft of its first verified talent.

HOW IT IS TOLD

The interactive map on the site · Instagram and TikTok specialisation spotlights · WhatsApp registration link as the call to action · LinkedIn for the capability story to clients and donors

SPONSORSHIP — CAMPAIGN PARTNER

Who: A foundation or INGO with an interest in Yemeni youth capability and data.

They receive: Association with 'mapping the talent of [governorate]'; a real, credible dataset on youth capability; a named regional chapter of the map.

Civic angle: Government gets, for the first time, verifiable evidence of youth skills by region — a planning asset, framed on employment and development.

A Place to Build

“Bring your laptop. Leave with a team.”

For: AUD-HUB, AUD-TAL, AUD-CLI, government · Window: 1–31 Oct

THE INSIGHT

Talented people have nowhere reliable to work — power cuts, no internet, no room to meet peers. Skill without a place to use it stays potential.

THE IDEA

The Hub opens as Aden's first home for verified talent: solar-powered, always-on internet, free and calm space to work, meet, and build, with the café as the meeting place. The promise is not a desk; it is a team. You arrive alone with a laptop and leave part of a pod. An open week turns the space into the proof.

OBJECTIVE

Establish the Hub as the physical home of the Kayan community and convert visits into memberships and pod formation.

WHAT HAPPENS

An open week: the Hub free and full, pods forming on-site, the café serving.

The 'met on Monday, won on Friday' story — a pod that forms at the Hub and takes a brief in the same week.

Solar and always-on internet made visible as the reason the Hub can promise reliability.

Membership on offer with Founding-Member framing continued from launch.

THE MOMENT

A time-lapse of the Hub filling through the open week, ending on a formed pod at a table.

HOW IT IS TOLD

Instagram and TikTok Hub life and open-week footage · Facebook for the local Aden audience · WhatsApp invitations · On-site signage and the café as content

SPONSORSHIP — CAMPAIGN PARTNER

Who: A connectivity, energy, or corporate sponsor who can underwrite reliable working conditions.

They receive: Association with 'free working days' or a named room or wall; visible support for a youth economic space.

Civic angle: Local authority endorses the Hub as a youth economic asset for the city — framed on opportunity and community.

GIVE-BACK TIE

The Hub is where volunteer pods will later gather for community projects; the civic use is seeded here.

Proof, Not Promises

“We take the work. We stand behind it.”

For: AUD-CLI · Window: 1–30 Nov

THE INSIGHT

Yemeni clients have been burned by unreliable freelancers who vanish mid-project. They do not want another promise; they want certainty and someone accountable.

THE IDEA

Kayan does not promise — it delivers, and publishes the proof. A public delivery ledger shows every completed pod project as a single proof card. Low-risk entry services — a brand in 48 hours, a working site in five days, data annotation at scale — are the safe way to try Kayan for the first time. And the money answers the fear: a client pays into escrow, not to a stranger, and Kayan stands behind the work.

OBJECTIVE

Generate qualified client briefs into the pipeline and convert first-time clients through low-risk entry services.

WHAT HAPPENS

The delivery ledger goes public: completed projects as proof cards, updated as pods deliver.

Quick-return entry services packaged and priced as the first, low-risk engagement.

The escrow story told plainly to clients: your money is held, released on accepted work.

A short client proof film: 'I paid into escrow, not to a stranger.'

THE MOMENT

The delivery ledger ticking over — a wall of delivered work that speaks for itself.

HOW IT IS TOLD

SPONSORSHIP — CAMPAIGN PARTNER

Who: A business association or chamber that wants to connect its members to reliable delivery.

They receive: Association with credible, accountable local delivery; a channel to reliable work for their members.

Civic angle: Government and INGO procurement teams shown a verified, compliant, accountable delivery route — framed on quality and compliance.

Build Home From Anywhere

“Your project employs your people.”

For: AUD-DIA, AUD-SPO · Window: 1–31 Dec

THE INSIGHT

The diaspora wants to help home but does not trust the channels, and knows that sending money is not the same as building capacity. They want their contribution to create work, not dependency.

THE IDEA

The diaspora does not just send — they commission. A Yemeni founder abroad gives real, paid work to a verified pod at home, or sponsors a whole cohort. Year-end giving is reframed from charity to capacity: your project employs your people, and international rails make it work. December’s reflection becomes a first impact report — a year of firsts, told in delivered work and verified talent.

OBJECTIVE

Open diaspora demand and sponsorship, and close the year on a credible impact story.

WHAT HAPPENS

Diaspora client path made frictionless: brief in, work delivered, paid through international rails.

A diaspora sponsor names and funds a cohort or a give-back project as year-end giving.

The first impact report: the year in delivered work, verified talent, and community hours.

A diaspora-and-pod video meeting: the founder abroad and the Aden pod, the work shipping.

THE MOMENT

A diaspora founder and their Aden pod meeting over video as the work ships — distance closed by delivered work.

HOW IT IS TOLD

Diaspora Facebook and Instagram communities · LinkedIn for diaspora professionals and founders · WhatsApp for direct diaspora relationships · The impact report as a shareable asset

SPONSORSHIP — COHORT SPONSOR

Who: A diaspora business or professional who wants their giving to build capacity at home.

They receive: A named cohort or give-back project; a clear, reported line from their money to real work and real people.

Civic angle: A model of diaspora investment in domestic capacity that government and development actors can point to.

New Year, New Work

“Learn it. Prove it. Get the work.”

For: AUD-TAL, AUD-HUB, job-seekers · Window: 1–31 Jan

THE INSIGHT

January is when people resolve to change their situation, and job-seekers are at their most motivated. But a resolution to 'learn a skill' dies without a path to income.

THE IDEA

The new-year moment is pointed at a real path, not a course. Kayan Forge intake opens with a promise the usual training does not make: learn, get verified, get work. A Forge cohort feeds directly into verification and into paid pods, so the runway from classroom to income is visible from day one. The proof is a graduate of an earlier cohort now leading a pod.

OBJECTIVE

Fill the Forge cohort and convert learners into verified talent on a path to paid work.

WHAT HAPPENS

Forge intake opens with the learn–verify–work path made explicit.

A prior-cohort graduate, now a pod lead, as the proof the path is real.

Cohort places offered with sponsor-funded seats where available.

The bridge shown end to end: cohort, then verification, then a first pod.

THE MOMENT

A Forge graduate from an earlier cohort leading a pod on a real client brief.

HOW IT IS TOLD

SPONSORSHIP — COHORT SPONSOR

Who: A skills funder, foundation, or corporate with a youth-employment mandate.

They receive: A named cohort; graduates who reach real work, not just certificates; a reported employment outcome.

Civic angle: Direct alignment with government youth-training and employment priorities — outcomes, not just enrolment.

Ten Nights, Ten Skills

“Give a skill. Earn your standing.”

For: AUD-VOL, AUD-SPO, government, community · Window: Ramadan ~18 Feb – 19 Mar 1448AH

THE INSIGHT

Ramadan is the season of giving in Yemen, and most giving is money or food — vital, but spent once. A skill given lasts: a school's website, a clinic's system, an NGO's data serve a community long after the month ends.

THE IDEA

The flagship civic campaign. The Ramadan spirit of giving is channelled into skills-for-community. Volunteers give verified hours to real community projects, and every block of hours earns Kayan Card tiers and points — standing, never money. Ten community projects are delivered by volunteer pods across the last ten nights, each one funded by a sponsor and nominated by a local authority. The volunteer, card, and points system is the hero of the whole year here.

OBJECTIVE

Mobilise volunteers, deliver visible community value, secure sponsor funding, and showcase the give-back-for-standing system at scale.

WHAT HAPPENS

Ten community projects scoped with local authorities and delivered by volunteer pods across the last ten nights.

Volunteer hours logged against real assignments with supervisor sign-off; hours convert to card tiers and points.

Each project named for its sponsor; each beneficiary nominated by a local authority.

A public give-back ticker: hours given, projects delivered, tiers earned — updated nightly.

The volunteer card fast-track: verified hours reach a card tier faster during the campaign.

THE MOMENT

Ten community projects handed over by Eid, beside a wall of volunteers and the card tiers their hours earned.

HOW IT IS TOLD

Facebook and Instagram nightly give-back updates · TikTok volunteer stories · WhatsApp volunteer coordination · Local media and mosque-community networks, handled with care

SPONSORSHIP — COMMUNITY PROJECT SPONSOR

Who: Corporates and foundations directing their Ramadan CSR and giving toward lasting community value.

They receive: A named community project delivered in their name; a clear, reported line from their giving to a real community outcome; association with a dignified, non-partisan civic effort.

Civic angle: Local authorities nominate the community beneficiaries and co-brand the effort — framed entirely on community benefit and youth contribution, never on politics. Do-no-harm governs every choice of beneficiary and message.

Eid: Behind Every Success

“Behind every success this year, a Kayan.”

For: Community, AUD-VOL, AUD-SPO, AUD-TAL · Window: Eid al-Fitr ~20 Mar +

THE INSIGHT

Eid is gratitude and recognition — a moment to honour the people who gave, not to sell.

THE IDEA

A gratitude moment, not a campaign that asks for anything. Kayan thanks its talent, its volunteers, its clients and its sponsors, and celebrates the volunteers whose hours earned the highest card tiers. The year's givers are named and honoured. It is warm, quiet, and communal, and it lands the promise as a lived truth: behind every success this year, a Kayan — and behind Kayan, these people.

OBJECTIVE

Deepen loyalty and community belonging, and convert gratitude into retention and word of mouth.

WHAT HAPPENS

Public recognition of the top volunteer card tiers earned during Ramadan.

A thank-you to clients, sponsors and talent, named where they consent.

An Eid greeting carrying the sonic signature and the promise.

No ask — only recognition; the campaign's restraint is the message.

THE MOMENT

The highest volunteer card tiers celebrated by name, with the hours and the projects behind them.

HOW IT IS TOLD

Instagram and Facebook Eid greeting and recognition · WhatsApp to the community · The site's honour roll of volunteers

SPONSORSHIP — CAMPAIGN PARTNER

Who: A partner content to be associated with gratitude and community, at low cost and high warmth.

They receive: Association with a genuine, non-commercial moment of community recognition.

Civic angle: Community recognition that local authorities can share as a positive youth story.

She Delivers

“She delivers.”

For: AUD-TAL (women), AUD-SPO, AUD-CLI · Window: 1–30 Apr

THE INSIGHT

Women in Yemen have skills and few safe, credible ways to earn from them. What is missing is not talent or will; it is a trusted, dignified route to paid work and a safe place to do it.

THE IDEA

A spotlight on women's economic contribution, told through delivered work, not labels. Women-led pods and women verified talent are shown doing significant client work; the women's safe space at the Hub is the place that makes it possible; and a sponsor underwrites women's verification so cost is not the barrier. The message is the work itself — a woman-led pod delivering for a real client — carried with dignity and never reduced to a category.

OBJECTIVE

Increase women's registration, verification and pod participation, and secure sponsorship for women's economic inclusion.

WHAT HAPPENS

- Women-led pods and women verified talent shown delivering real client work.
- The women's safe space at the Hub as the enabling environment, shown with care.
- A sponsor underwrites women's verification fees and a women-focused cohort.
- Inclusion shown by integration: the work leads; the label never does.

THE MOMENT

A woman-led pod delivering a significant client project, in their own words.

The Sector Series — Digital Delivered

“One sector. Proven, here.”

For: AUD-CLI, AUD-TAL by sector · Window: 1–31 May

THE INSIGHT

Clients trust specific proof more than general claims. 'We have talent' persuades no one; 'here is a verified Aden team that delivered exactly your kind of project' persuades a buyer.

THE IDEA

A repeatable format that spotlights one sector at a time, matching proven supply to concrete demand. Its first run, Digital Delivered, puts verified Yemeni digital talent — web, data annotation, content, design — beside the real briefs the pipeline already shows demand for, from diaspora annotation work to local e-commerce. The series is a template: next runs can spotlight design, data, translation, or any domain where demand and proven supply meet.

OBJECTIVE

Convert sector-specific demand into briefs while driving verified registration in the same sector.

WHAT HAPPENS

One sector chosen on real demand signals; verified talent in that sector spotlighted.

Sector proof cards: delivered projects of exactly the kind the sector's buyers need.

A sector-specific call to clients ('bring your [sector] brief') and to talent ('get verified in [sector]').

From Campus to Career

“The gap between a degree and a job, closed.”

For: AUD-TAL (graduates), universities, government · Window: 1–30 Jun (graduation season)

THE INSIGHT

Every year, graduates leave university into a market with no clear route to work. A degree proves study; it does not prove employable, verifiable skill — and no bridge exists between the two.

THE IDEA

Kayan becomes the bridge from campus to career. In graduation season, universities partner to fast-track their graduates into registration and verification, with a Forge bridge where a skill gap remains. The message to a graduate is direct: the gap between your degree and a job closes here — get verified, join a pod, do real work. Government's youth-employment interest is served with outcomes, not enrolment figures.

OBJECTIVE

Convert graduating students into verified talent through university partnerships, and deepen government youth-employment engagement.

WHAT HAPPENS

University partnerships (MoUs) to fast-track graduating cohorts into registration and verification.

A Forge bridge for graduates whose degree needs a practical, verifiable skill added.

Graduate proof: a recent graduate already earning through a pod.

One Year, Behind Every Success

“One year. And this is the beginning.”

For: All audiences, AUD-SPO, investors · Window: 1–31 Jul (anniversary)

THE INSIGHT

An anniversary is proof and permission — proof that the model works, and permission to raise sight to what comes next. The people who built the first year want to see what they built, and what it becomes.

THE IDEA

The year told back as evidence, and pointed forward. The anniversary gathers the whole story — verified talent on the map, delivered work in the ledger, community hours given, cohorts graduated — into one account of a year that proved the talent was always here. And it opens the next chapter: the venture path, the first investors, and an invitation to those with a proven record to build businesses on the system Kayan made. One year, behind every success — and this is the beginning.

OBJECTIVE

Consolidate the year's proof into reputation and momentum, and open the investor and venture conversation.

WHAT HAPPENS

The anniversary account: the year in verified talent, delivered work, community hours, and cohorts.

The look forward: the venture path and the first investor conversation, using the reserved manifesto framing.

Recognition of the founding cohort — the talents, clients, sponsors and volunteers who built year one.

BNK-03	Met Here	Always-on	Short stories of pods that formed at the Hub and won work — the Hub's promise, proven repeatedly.	AUD-HUB, AUD-TAL
BNK-04	48 Hours	Tactical	A recurring quick-return challenge — a brand, a landing page, an annotated set delivered in 48 hours, filmed. Proof of speed for first-time clients.	AUD-CLI
BNK-05	Give-Back Ticker	Always-on	A live count of community hours given, projects delivered, and card tiers earned — the civic engine visible year-round, not only in Ramadan.	AUD-VOL, AUD-SPO
BNK-06	Ask a Verified Expert	Tactical	A verified talent answers a real question publicly — useful content that proves expertise and feeds registration interest.	AUD-TAL, AUD-CLI
BNK-07	Sponsor Spotlight	Always-on	A short, dignified feature of what a sponsor's funding built — the reported line from money to outcome, made shareable.	AUD-SPO
BNK-08	The Diaspora Desk	Always-on	A standing channel and story stream for diaspora clients and sponsors — 'build home from anywhere', continuous.	AUD-DIA

1 The content engine

Every campaign is carried by content, and every piece of content answers to six pillars. The pillars keep a year of posts coherent; the platforms carry them where the audience is; and a short set of rules keeps the voice — and the do-no-harm discipline — intact.

THE SIX PILLARS

Pillar	What it carries	Why it earns its place
Proof	Delivered work, the ledger, client outcomes.	Every proof answers a buyer's fear.
Faces	Verified talent, pods, the people on the map.	People trust people, not platforms.
Place	The Hub, the café, pods forming, the safe space.	The home makes the promise tangible.
Give-back	Volunteers, community projects, cards and points earned.	Standing earned by giving is Kayan's civic heart.
Learn	Forge cohorts, the learn–verify–work path, graduates.	The bridge from skill to income.
Model	How Kayan works — escrow, verification, pods — explained plainly.	Clarity converts; confusion loses.

THE PLATFORMS

Platform	Its role	What it carries
Facebook	Broad Aden reach; community and local news.	Reach, community, event mobilisation.
Instagram	Story and craft; talent faces and Hub life.	Brand, talent spotlights, culture.
TikTok	Short, human, behind-the-scenes; youth reach.	Youth talent acquisition, Hub life, speed proofs.
WhatsApp	The direct channel; registration and coordination.	Registration link, volunteer coordination, client and diaspora relationships.
LinkedIn	The professional and institutional audience.	Clients, INGOs, government, donors, investors.
X	Timely, public-facing statements and threads.	Announcements, sector and policy conversations.

THE RULES

1. Every campaign ships with a content kit — the hero asset, the cut-downs per platform, and the always-on tie.
2. The sonic signature opens brand moments; the promise closes them.
3. WhatsApp carries the registration link as the single, low-friction call to action across campaigns.
4. Owned and earned content leads; paid boost amplifies the proven, it does not replace the story.

5. Do no harm governs every post: no conflict framing, no faction, dignity in every face shown, consent before naming.

2 The sponsorship model

Sponsorship is not a donation asked for; it is an association offered, with a specific value exchange and a reported line from the sponsor's money to a real outcome. Five tiers, one disciplined journey, and a government model built entirely on youth, skills, and community.

THE TIERS

Tier	What it is	What the sponsor receives	Contribution
Founding Partner	The institution named as a builder of Kayan from day one.	Name and mark on the Founders' Wall; first association with the system; founding-year impact report; renewal at the anniversary.	PH-SPON-FOUND
Campaign Partner	A partner attached to a single campaign.	Association with a specific campaign and its outcome; a reported line from support to result.	PH-SPON-CAMP
Civic Partner	A government body or local authority endorsing a youth-employment or community effort.	Association with a non-partisan youth and community initiative; a planning asset (the map, the outcomes).	Non-financial or PH-SPON-CIVIC
Cohort Sponsor	A funder of a Forge cohort or a talent-verification cohort.	A named cohort; graduates who reach real work; a reported employment outcome.	PH-SPON-COHORT
Community Project Sponsor	A funder of a single community give-back project.	A named community project delivered in their name; a clear line from giving to community outcome.	PH-SPON-PROJECT

THE SPONSOR JOURNEY

Step	What happens	Owner
Identify	A prospect is matched to a campaign or cohort whose story fits their mandate.	POS-BRD-LEAD
Approach	The prospect is approached with a specific, costed opportunity and a clear value exchange — never a generic ask.	POS-CEO / POS-BRD-LEAD
Agree	Scope, recognition, and reporting are agreed in writing before anything is committed.	POS-CEO
Service	The sponsor's association is delivered as promised across the campaign; nothing is claimed that is not done.	POS-BRD-LEAD
Report	A reported line from the sponsor's money to the real outcome — verified, not asserted.	POS-FIN / POS-BRD-LEAD

THE GOVERNMENT MODEL

- Government and local-authority engagement is framed only on youth, skills, employment, and community outcomes.
- The verified talent map and the campaigns' placement and community outcomes are offered as genuine planning assets.
- No engagement aligns Kayan with any faction or takes any position on the conflict. Do no harm is the governing test.
- Local authorities nominate community beneficiaries and co-brand civic campaigns; they do not direct Kayan's independence.

3 The give-back engine — volunteers, cards, points

Kayan's civic heart is a simple exchange: give a verified skill to the community, and earn standing for it. The engine runs all year and peaks in Ramadan. It turns the spirit of giving into something that lasts for the community and something that counts for the giver — standing, never money.

HOW IT WORKS

Step	What happens	Owner
A community need is scoped	A local authority or community institution nominates a real need — a school's site, a clinic's system, an NGO's data.	POS-K4Y-CO
A volunteer pod is formed	Verified talent volunteers; a pod is assembled to deliver, under supervision, exactly as a paid pod would.	POS-TAL-ASM
Hours are given and verified	Volunteer hours are logged against the assignment and confirmed by a supervisor — never self-declared.	POS-K4Y-CO
Standing is earned	Verified hours convert to Kayan Card tiers and points — recognition and access, never money, work, or a purchased tier.	System
The outcome is delivered and named	The community project is handed over; the sponsor who funded it and the volunteers who built it are named, with consent.	POS-K4Y-CO

Standing, never money. Points and card tiers earned by volunteering unlock recognition and access — never money, never paid work, never a tier that must otherwise be verified. Manufactured hours earn nothing, because nothing they earn has a price.

THE RULES

1. Volunteer hours are never billed to a client and never enter the payout pool. The two ledgers never touch.
2. Points and card tiers earned by volunteering unlock standing, recognition and access — never money, never paid work, never a tier that must otherwise be verified.
3. Hours count only against a real, supervised assignment with sign-off. Manufactured hours earn nothing, because nothing they earn has a price.
4. A sponsor may fund a community project; a sponsor may never buy a volunteer's standing or a card tier.
5. Beneficiaries are chosen on community need and do-no-harm, nominated by local authorities, never on politics.

THE CARD

The Kayan Card recognises standing in metal bands — the same credential the talent system issues. Volunteer hours are one of the ways a person earns and raises a card, alongside verified work. The card proves standing to the outside world; it never substitutes for the verification a paid engagement requires.

What it costs

Every campaign's cost is built from the same six lines, and the year is the sum of the campaigns. Nothing is set here; every line is a token. The workbook holds this as a live model — fill the lines once and the whole programme costs itself, gross, offset by sponsorship, and net.

Line	What it covers	Token
Creative production	Films, design, the content kit, the sonic-signature stings.	PH-BL-PROD
Media & boost	Paid amplification of proven content across platforms.	PH-BL-MEDIA
Event & activation	Launch gatherings, open weeks, community handovers.	PH-BL-EVENT
Print & physical	The Founders' Wall, signage, cards, printed proof.	PH-BL-PRINT
Creator & talent fees	Fees for creators and any external talent used in content.	PH-BL-CREATOR
Sponsorship servicing	The cost of delivering and reporting a sponsor's association.	PH-BL-SPONSVC

1. Every campaign's cost is the sum of these lines; the annual programme is the sum of the campaigns.
2. Owned and earned effort is separated from paid spend, so the programme's true media cost is visible.
3. Sponsorship raised against a campaign offsets its cost; the workbook shows gross cost, sponsorship offset, and net.
4. No figure is set here. Every line is a token that resolves in the F-01 decision session, after which the whole programme costs itself.

How we tell it is working

Measure	What it counts	What it tells us
Reach & reputation	Total qualified reach; sentiment; share of voice in Aden.	Awareness that the year is building.
Talent supply	Registrations; completed verifications; governorates and specialisations on the map.	The map filling with credible, verified talent.
Client demand	Qualified briefs; first-time clients; quick-return engagements; briefs won.	Demand converting into funded work.
Civic mobilisation	Volunteers; verified community hours; community projects delivered; card tiers earned by giving.	The give-back engine turning.
Sponsorship	Partners secured by tier; funds raised; sponsorship offset against programme cost.	The programme funding itself.

Measure	What it counts	What it tells us
Learning	Cohort places filled; learners progressing to verification and to pods.	The learn–verify–work bridge carrying.
The governing number	Share of the verified registry ever placed.	The one number the whole institution serves.

One number above the rest. Reach, registrations, sponsors and hours all matter — but the year is judged, finally, on the same number the whole institution serves: the share of the verified registry that has ever been placed.

What this adds to the decision session

Fork	The decision	Why it matters
F-11	The campaign budget lines [[PH-BL-]] and each campaign envelope [[PH-CMP-BUDGET]].	Sets the cost of the programme; the workbook computes the year the moment they resolve.
F-12	The sponsorship tier values [[PH-SPON-*]].	Sets what each sponsor tier contributes and what the programme can offset.
F-13	The volunteer-hours-to-card-tier thresholds.	Sets how much giving earns which standing; a values decision at the heart of the civic engine.
F-14	The sector chosen for each run of the Sector Series.	A demand-led choice, revisited each quarter on real pipeline signals.
