

KAYAN FOR YEMEN · CIVIC PROFILE

Talent has no geography.

The civic mission of Kayan — a commitment that the systems built for commerce serve the country that made them possible.

خَلْفَ كُلِّ مَشْرُوعٍ نَاجِحٍ، كَيَانٌ

A company that remembers where it stands.

Kayan for Yemen is not a separate venture. It is the civic conscience of one institution — the promise that the verification, governance, and trust infrastructure Kayan builds for commerce also serves the country it belongs to.

The talent was always here. The system was not — and the system should serve more than those who can pay for it.

Where Kayan's business lines create accountable delivery for clients, Kayan for Yemen extends that same accountability to civic ends: young people finding a first verified engagement, communities gaining capability, and a generation of Yemeni talent given a reason to build at home rather than leave.

What Kayan for Yemen holds

Opportunity at home

Verified engagements that keep Yemeni talent contributing from within Yemen.

Capability for all

Capacitation that reaches beyond those who can already pay for access.

Dignity through work

Real, recorded, accountable work — not charity, but standing earned.

◆ HOW THE MISSION OPERATES

The same discipline, turned outward.

Kayan for Yemen does not run on goodwill alone. It runs on the same infrastructure that makes Kayan's commercial work trustworthy — so its impact can be verified, recorded, and stood behind.

Civic focus	How Kayan delivers it	What it leaves behind
First engagements	Verified entry-level work for emerging talent	A first verified record to build a profile on
Community capability	Capacitation aligned to genuine local need	Skills that translate into real engagements
Inclusion by design	Access built for those the market overlooks	A wider, fairer verified-talent base
Shared partnerships	Civic collaboration with aligned institutions	Impact that can be evidenced, not assumed

Why it belongs inside Kayan

A civic mission detached from a business is fragile; it ends when the funding does. Kayan for Yemen is durable precisely because it is carried by an institution that earns its keep. The commercial lines sustain the civic mission, and the civic mission keeps the institution honest about why it exists.

◆ THE INVITATION

Build the country by trusting its people.

Kayan for Yemen invites partners, institutions, and communities to treat Yemeni talent not as a problem to be managed, but as a capability to be trusted — and to help build the system that makes that trust possible.

For partners

Channel investment into verified, accountable civic outcomes with a record you can audit.

For institutions

Collaborate on initiatives that strengthen Yemen's own verification and capability.

For communities

Find a path into real engagements, with standing earned through delivery.

For talent

Begin a verified record at home, and build on it without leaving.

The systems we built for commerce, we owe to the country that made them necessary.

That is the whole of Kayan for Yemen — not a programme bolted on, but a promise built in.

Behind every successful project, a Kayan.
