

PARTNERSHIP PROPOSAL

A partner that delivers, and stands behind it.

For programmes and institutions investing in Yemeni talent — a partner with the verification, governance, and delivery infrastructure to turn intent into accountable outcomes.

Intent needs infrastructure.

Programmes that invest in Yemeni talent face a recurring problem: funds are deployed, but delivery cannot be verified and outcomes cannot be traced. Kayan exists precisely to close that loop — verifying who delivers, managing how, and recording the result.

How do I know this investment reached real talent, and what did it actually produce?

A partnership with Kayan converts good intent into evidenced outcomes. Every engagement runs through verified talent, a defined scope of work, a financial guarantee, and a recorded result a partner can audit. The accountability a funder needs is the accountability Kayan is built to provide.

What a partner gains

Verified reach

Access to a verified-talent pool, not an unvetted directory.

Traceable delivery

Defined scope, staged sign-off, recorded outcomes — fully auditable.

Institutional recourse

An accountable counterpart that stands behind every engagement.

◆ MODELS OF PARTNERSHIP

Structured to fit the mandate.

Kayan works with partners across several models, each grounded in the same delivery discipline. The shape adapts; the assurance does not.

Model	What Kayan provides	Best suited to
Talent mobilisation	Verified talent prepared and engaged for partner-funded work	Employment and livelihood programmes
Managed delivery	End-to-end project execution under financial guarantee	Funders needing assured outputs
Capacitation	Kayan Forge preparation aligned to real engagements	Skills and readiness mandates
Civic collaboration	Kayan for Yemen — shared-mission initiatives	Social-impact and community partners

How a partnership is built

Kayan develops each partnership deliberately, in dialogue, before anything is committed to paper. The scope, the assurances, and the shared outcomes are defined together — so the agreement that follows reflects a genuine fit, not a template. This is a standing principle: partnerships are designed, not issued.

◆ ALIGNMENT

Shared outcomes, measured honestly.

Kayan aligns naturally with partners working on livelihoods, private-sector development, and institutional capacity in Yemen — because the infrastructure Kayan builds is the infrastructure those mandates depend on.

Livelihoods

Verified engagements create real, traceable income for Yemeni talent at home.

Private-sector development

A functioning trust layer lets a market form where one could not before.

Institutional capacity

Every engagement strengthens the verification and governance the country lacks.

Measurable impact

Recorded delivery means impact can be evidenced, not merely asserted.

The talent was always here. The system was not — until now, and a partner helps it hold.

Kayan invites partners who want their investment in Yemeni talent to be verifiable, accountable, and lasting. The conversation begins with a shared mandate, and ends with delivery a partner can stand behind alongside us.

Behind every successful project, a Kayan.
