1 • Executive Summary

Kayan is a Yemeni operating institution that puts talent to work under one guarantee: a client's money is held in escrow and released only as verified work is delivered. We are not a single coworking space, nor a single agency. We are four business lines bound by one trust system — Managed Delivery, The Hub, The Café, and Kayan Forge — supported by a civic brand, Kayan for Yemen, and activated in a deliberate sequence so that each new line stands on proven ground.

Yemen holds a deep reserve of capable professionals whose work is largely invisible to the markets that would pay for it. Distance, trust, and payment friction keep talented Yemenis out of the global economy and keep good clients from finding them. Kayan exists to close that gap — to make Yemeni talent globally visible, to connect professionals to sustainable, permanent work, and to build the institutional infrastructure a recovering economy needs.

The model in one paragraph

Clients bring work. Kayan assembles a pod of verified micro-specialists to deliver it. The client funds escrow up front; talent is paid 80% on acceptance; Kayan earns a net fee of 20% (15% on light engagements), with a 2% quality holdback released after thirty clean days. Around this engine sit a coworking hub and a café that generate community, footfall and cash, and Kayan Forge, which trains and verifies the next generation of talent and feeds them into the registry. A trust ladder (T0–T4) and the Kayan Card (KC-A to KC-F) make capability legible and portable.

The ask: a seed round at a USD 600,000 pre-money valuation (10,000 IPS units at USD 60), with a Series A targeted for Q2 2027. Founder control is protected at a 51% floor; reserved matters require 75%.

Why now, and why this team

The founding team combines operating leadership, finance discipline, and government relations, with a majority-controlling founder-CEO and a finance co-founder who has invested cash. Governance is real, not decorative: dual-approval on every meaningful payment, escrow funds ring-fenced as a liability, related-party protections in force, and a compliance posture built for Yemen law. The institution is being built to be fundable, auditable, and durable from day one.

Soft-open is 30 June 2026. The foundation — governance, finance and people systems — and the revenue engine are already built and operating-ready. What follows is disciplined activation.

2 · The Opportunity

The talent paradox

Yemen's professionals are capable and under-employed at the same time. Designers, developers, accountants, translators, marketers and engineers are present in real numbers, yet the work that would sustain them sits in markets that cannot see or safely transact with them. The barriers are not skill — they are visibility, trust, and the mechanics of getting paid across a fragile economy.

Three structural gaps Kayan closes

- Visibility. Clients abroad and at home cannot easily verify who is good. Kayan's trust ladder and Card make capability legible.
- Trust. Neither side trusts the other to deliver or to pay. Kayan's escrow guarantee removes that risk for both.
- Payment. Moving money in and out of Yemen is hard and informal. Kayan provides a clean, bank-based, escrow-protected payment path — no Hawala, no crypto, no personal accounts.

The market

Kayan serves two customer sides at once. On the demand side: local businesses, diaspora-owned ventures, NGOs and development bodies, and international clients seeking cost-effective, reliable delivery. On the supply side: Yemeni professionals seeking sustainable work and a credential that travels. The café and hub add a third, local revenue stream rooted in Aden's daily economy.

Kayan does not depend on a single market. Local footfall (Hub, Café), domestic and diaspora clients (Managed Delivery), development-body partnerships (Forge), and eventually a platform marketplace each carry part of the load — and each de-risks the others.

3 · What Kayan Is — Four Lines, One Trust System

Kayan is a single institution operating four business lines, bound together by one trust-and-payment system and animated by a civic purpose. The lines are deliberately complementary: each generates value on its own, and each strengthens the others.

BUSINESS LINE	WHAT IT DOES	HOW IT EARNS	ACTIVATES
Managed Delivery	Pods of verified micro-specialists deliver client projects under the escrow guarantee	Net fee 20% (15% light), earned at the final gate	Phase 1 (soft-open)
The Hub	Coworking space, desks, meeting and training rooms, events	Memberships, room hire, event fees	Phase 1 (soft-open)
The Café — Birthplace Brew	A café that anchors the hub socially and serves Aden's daily economy	Food and beverage sales	Phase 1 (soft-open)
Kayan Forge	Trains and verifies talent; feeds the registry that staffs the pods	Programme fees, donor cohorts, corporate training	Phase 2 (2027)

Kayan for Yemen — the civic brand

Kayan for Yemen is the institution's social-impact and volunteer engine: civic projects, a volunteer corps, and the national-visibility work that gives Kayan its meaning. It is a brand and a programme, not a fifth business line — its purpose is impact, and it draws on the strength of the commercial lines rather than competing with them.

The integration is the point. The Café brings people through the door; the Hub gives them a place to work; Managed Delivery turns their skills into income; Kayan Forge replenishes and upgrades the talent pool; and Kayan for Yemen returns value to the community. One institution, reinforcing itself.

4 · Business Model & Revenue

The agent model, precisely

Managed Delivery operates as a trusted agent, not a marketplace middleman. When a client funds a project, that money is escrow — a liability Kayan holds, never revenue. Kayan earns revenue only when work is accepted and the fee is recognised at the final gate. This distinction is not cosmetic; it is how the institution stays honest, auditable, and fundable.

FLOW	TREATMENT	ACCOUNT
Client funds project	Escrow — liability (held, not	Escrow client funds (2100) earned)

Work accepted at final gate	Talent paid their share	Talent payable (2120)
Fee recognised	Kayan revenue	Managed Delivery net fee (4010)
Quality retention	2% held 30 days, then released	QA holdback (2110)

Of every project value: talent receives 80% (a pass-through, not a Kayan cost), Kayan's net fee is 20% standard or 15% light, and 2% of the fee is held back for thirty days as a quality guarantee. Kayan's real economics are the net fee less its own delivery overhead — lean by design, gated by a disciplined OPEX ceiling.

Revenue lines and their logic

- Café — recurring, low-margin, high-frequency cash from Aden's daily economy; anchors footfall.
- Hub — recurring membership and space revenue; high operating leverage once occupied.
- Managed Delivery — the margin engine; scalable with talent depth, protected by escrow and QA.
- Kayan Forge — programme and partnership revenue; doubles as the talent supply chain.

Cost discipline is a strategy, not an afterthought. Monthly OPEX is held within USD 2,250 (a CauseWay 50/50 cost-share of USD 1,500 plus USD 750 Kayan-only) until a phase explicitly raises the ceiling with board approval. Currency is handled at the dated Aden market rate per transaction — never pegged.

5 • What Makes Kayan Different

DIFFERENTIATOR	WHY IT MATTERS
Micro-specialization	Talent is defined by narrow, provable expertise — not vague titles — so clients get exactly the skill they need.
Pod-based delivery	Small, accountable teams assembled per project; reliability without permanent overhead.
The escrow guarantee	Client money is protected and released only as verified work is delivered — trust for both sides.
Trust Ladder (T0–T4)	Capability is earned and legible; oversight scales down as trust scales up.
The Kayan Card (KC-A–F)	A portable credential that travels with the professional and signals verified capability.
One connected institution	Four lines plus a civic brand that reinforce one another, not four separate ventures.

None of these is a feature in isolation. Together they form a moat: a competitor would have to replicate the trust system, the talent pipeline, the local footprint, and the institutional governance all at once.

6 • Go-to-Market & Phased Activation

Kayan activates its lines in a deliberate sequence so that each new line stands on proven ground. The sequencing principle: cash-anchoring lines, then capacitation, then productization, then platform, then ventures. Each phase de-risks the next.

PHASE	WHEN	WHAT ACTIVATES	THE GATE TO THE NEXT PHASE
1 • Anchor	H2 2026	Hub • Café • Managed Delivery	Soft-open executed; first projects delivered; OPEX within ceiling; break-even occupancy
2 • Capacitate	2027	Kayan Forge • pods at scale • Ready-Products catalogue • Series A	Registry deep enough to staff pods; Series A closed; net fee growing
3 • Platform	2028	Kayan Market (marketplace)	Trust system proven; majority of placements via the platform
4 • Ventures	2029–2030	Kayan Ventures • Kayan for Yemen at national scale	Self-sustaining across all lines; recognised institution

The discipline is the strategy: we earn the right to each phase by closing the gate on the last. Opening the marketplace before trust is mature, or spinning up ventures before the registry is deep, would put capital ahead of trust. Holding that line is the CEO's most important strategic duty.

7 • How Kayan Operates

Kayan runs on a connected set of operating systems — one per domain — each owned by an accountable lead and built as a control instrument, not a filing cabinet. Governance sets the rules every other system runs under; Finance receives postings from every line and returns the numbers that gate each phase; Managed Delivery moves work and money through defined gates; HR supplies and cares for the people. The systems interlock by design, with each carrying an explicit map of what it sends to and receives from the others.

DOMAIN	OPERATING SYSTEM	ACCOUNTABLE LEAD
Governance & Legal	Constitutional spine — charter, delegation, COI, risk, compliance	CEO + Government Lead
Finance	Yemen-compliant accounting system — full cycle, escrow, tax, payroll	Finance Lead
Managed Delivery	The revenue engine — pods, gates, escrow, QA, economics	Delivery Lead
Hub, Café & Space	Memberships, bookings, events, café operations	Hub Lead / Café Lead
Kayan Forge	Programmes, verification, the talent registry	Forge Lead
HR & People	Position architecture, payroll inputs, wellbeing, culture	People Lead

This architecture means Kayan can grow without losing control: a new line plugs into an existing governance, finance and people backbone rather than reinventing it.

8 • Team & Governance

Kayan is led by a majority-controlling founder-CEO and a finance co-founder who has invested cash, with government relations held by a third partner. A fourth partner holds equity in a strictly non-operating capacity, ring-fenced by conflict-of-interest protections.

PARTNER	ROLE	EQUITY
Maheer Faisal Saeed Farea	Chief Executive — operating; strategy, payments co-approval	80%
Tariq Ahmed Al-Mukhdari	Finance Lead — operating; accounting, controls, escrow	10%
Mohamed Faisal Saeed Farea	Partner — non-operating (COI; no cross-approval; vesting cliff)	7.5%
Ali Qaed Ahmed	Government Relations — compliance, permits	2.5%

Equity is immutable and Ministry-filed. The CEO's control is protected at a 51% floor; reserved matters — new equity, budget changes, line activation outside the plan, related-party transactions, and charter amendments — require 75% approval.

Governance is real, not decorative

- Dual approval — every payment of USD 500 or more requires CEO and Finance Lead together.
- Prohibited channels — no Hawala, no crypto, no personal accounts. All funds move bank-to-bank.
- Segregation of duties — the person who prepares a payment never approves it; the person who posts never reconciles.
- Related-party discipline — the non-operating partner discloses, recuses, and holds no cross-approval authority.

This governance posture is deliberate: Kayan is being built to be auditable and fundable from day one, so that banks, investors and development partners can trust the institution, not just the people in it.

9 • Social Impact — Why Kayan Exists

Kayan is a commercial institution with a civic purpose. Every placement is a Yemeni professional earning sustainable income; every cohort that passes through Kayan Forge is capability built where it is scarce; every project delivered is proof that Yemeni talent can compete. This is not a side programme — it is the reason the institution exists.

Kayan for Yemen carries the explicit social mission: a volunteer corps, civic projects, and national-visibility work. It is funded by the strength of the commercial lines and measured on outcomes — people placed, work delivered, capability created, and community served — rather than on inputs alone.

IMPACT DIMENSION	WHAT WE MEASURE
Livelihoods	Professionals placed into sustainable, paid work

Capability	Talent trained and verified through Kayan Forge
Visibility	Yemeni work delivered to domestic, diaspora and international clients
Community	Civic projects and volunteer contribution through Kayan for Yemen
Institution-building	A durable, governed organisation a recovering economy can build on

Impact and commercial discipline are not in tension at Kayan — they are the same engine. The more talent we put to work under the guarantee, the greater both the revenue and the social return.

10 · Financial Plan

Kayan's financials are run on a Yemen-compliant accounting system covering the full cycle — double-entry journal, escrow sub-ledger, payroll, tax and Zakat, and the financial statements — with every figure derived once and flowing through automatically. The plan below is indicative and consistent with that system and with the phased activation; precise projections are maintained in the financial model.

The cost base (locked discipline)

ITEM	BASIS
Monthly OPEX ceiling	USD 2,250 (CauseWay 50/50 share USD 1,500 + Kayan-only USD 750)
Payroll (anchor roster)	Lean founding team; partners non-operating are off payroll
Currency	Dated Aden market rate per transaction; no peg
Statutory	CIT 20% · GST 5% (10% telecom) · WHT 10% · Zakat 2.5% of net income · SI 9%/6%

Indicative trajectory

Phase 1 is about reaching break-even on the anchor lines (Hub, Café) and building a Managed Delivery track record. As pods scale and the Forge feeds verified talent in Phase 2, net fee becomes the margin engine; the Series A funds that scaling. Phase 3's platform adds operating leverage. The discipline throughout: revenue is recognised only when earned, and costs are held to the ceiling until a phase justifies raising it.

HORIZON	FOCUS	FINANCIAL OBJECTIVE
Year 1 (H2 2026–2027)	Anchor lines + delivery track record	Break-even on Hub/Café; first net-fee revenue; OPEX within ceiling
Year 2 (2027)	Forge + pods at scale + Series A	Net fee growing month-on-month; Series A closed (target Q2)
Year 3 (2028)	Platform leverage	Marketplace take-rate sustaining OPEX + margin

11 · Risks & Mitigations

RISK	MITIGATION
FX volatility (YER)	Price in USD; dated-rate accounting; hold minimal YER
Cash runway	OPEX ceiling USD 2,250; weekly cash review; Series

	A in 2027
Talent quality / delivery failure	Trust ladder; QA gates; 2% holdback; pod review
Key-person dependence	Document everything; delegation of authority; cross-train leads
Regulatory / licence lapse	Compliance calendar; renewals tracked; government-relations partner
Connectivity / security (Aden)	Starlink/PTC backup; data backups; continuity plan
Payment / AML risk	Bank-only channels; KYC; escrow discipline; AML policy

12 · The Ask & Roadmap

Kayan is raising a seed round — recommended at USD 150,000 for 20% (2,500 new IPS at USD 60; post-money USD 750,000, founder retaining ~64%) — to complete Phase 1 activation and build the track record that funds a Series A in 2027.

TERM	DETAIL
Instrument	Equity — IPS units
Pre-money valuation	USD 600,000
Units	10,000 IPS at USD 60
Founder control	Protected at a 51% floor
Reserved matters	Require 75% approval
Series A	Targeted Q2 2027, against a proven Phase-1 track record

Use of funds: complete the soft-open of the anchor lines, stand up the first delivery pods, build the talent registry through Kayan Forge, and reach the Phase-2 gate. Every dollar is governed by the same controls described in this plan — dual approval, escrow discipline, and a hard OPEX ceiling.

Kayan is not a bet on a single product. It is a bet on a connected institution — built to be fundable, auditable and durable — that turns Yemeni talent into sustainable work under one guarantee. Behind every successful project, a Kayan.
